Sixteen United States Presidents were no whiskers and seven died. There is no hope for Peffer.

Philadelphia people are clamoring for dollar gas. They now pay $1.50 per thousand cubic feet, and the city itself makes and furnishes the gas. Naturally they think the city ought to sell gas as cheaply as do the private corporations of Cincinnati, Chicago, Boston, Pittsburgh, Allegheny, Buffalo, Rochester, Columbus, Sandusky, Birmingham and Wheeling.

Michael J. Ryan, the Democratic precinct officer of Gardiner, Mass., who was convicted of altering a ballot cast for Governor at the state election in November, 1891, was before Judge Maynard in the Superior Criminal Court and sentenced to the House of Correction for six months. This is the first sentence for the crime. There must be something wrong about this, for Democrats never perpetrate frauds on the ballot-box, you know.

The New York Tribune says Mr. Cleveland has announced the following as his policy in making appointments: The next administration will be a business men's administration. By that I mean that business men are to have the preference in the appointments. Of course the business men will be Democrats. But in making appointments I shall consider the business records of the applicants. That will have greater weight with me than the influence of political organizations. I shall appoint successful business men as heads of the departments, and I shall expect this policy to be carried out in all departments of the Government. This is a time when business men are needed. The questions before the American people are questions that can be best solved by business men. Reforms in the tariff, economy in the Government, will be easily accomplished if plain, practical, honest business men are selected.

A well known New York Democrat says everybody was as much surprised when Cleveland announced his determination to go to the funeral of ex-President Hayes as they were at his tariff and money messages and his Murphy interview. But he makes no mistakes. He does a thing that everybody at once pronounces a mistake and wonder at his action. But presently it appears that he made no mistake; that he did the right thing at time develops. Whether it is far-sighted wisdom or prescience or merely blundering good luck, I do not know; but it is so. He should have the credit of the first supposition, and the thing has happened so often that he has grown up a feeling of considerable confidence in the wisdom of any course he takes, in at least a political way.

"Now, see what he accomplished by his unexpected action in going to the funeral of General Hayes. He did a graceful and appropriate act, one sure to be applauded by the country; he did honor to a man whom he had come to have a warm regard for personally; he got away for a few days from the office-seekers and office-seeking, and counselors and all the annoyances of his position. But he did something more than that. He got back at Mr. Tilden, whose derogatory remarks about him he had never forgotten, and he gave Charles A. Dana such a buffet as to make The Sun cry in a column double-loaded editorial.

"There are no flies on Mr. Cleveland."

MARY MARKHAM, Belle Ford, Pearl Royce and William Ford, Shantytown denizens, were in the Cincinnati Police Court Tuesday, telling each other's faults to Judge Ford. A neighborhood quarrel precipitated the arrests, which appear likely to lead to more serious charges. Royce and Markham charged William Ford with being a fugitive from justice. They said he attempted to kill Bill King of this city several weeks ago, and that his wife was charged with shooting Ed. Bell, also of this city. The Fords at length got the floor and told a long-drawn-out story of misdemeanor on the part of Royce and Markham. They claimed the Royce woman was wanted at Indianapolis and that Mrs. Markham can explain away an arson mystery in Lewis county. They were all held.

ANOTHER COLD WAVE.

This one strikes only applicants for places in the Postoffice.

Postmaster Davis has received official notification from the United States Civil Service Commission that the Maysville Postoffice has been placed in the classified service.

The extension of the Civil Service rules to this office was made upon the recommendation of the Commission.

The effect of this new order of things will be that the present employees of the office will retain their places under any incoming Postmaster. They are not required to pass any examination, as they were properly in the service prior to the extension of the rules.

Persons who desire to apply for any vacancy that may occur by reason of resignation or removal for just cause, will be required to pass a satisfactory examination before a Board of Examiners appointed by the Commission.

The time in which applicants are given to answer the questions and work out the prescribed problems varies from four to six hours, according to the position to be filled. The successful fellow must be able to wade through vulgar fractions up to his eyes, parse a sentence that would make Lindley Murray green with envy, talk of the pieties until Professor Proctor's bones rattle in the coffin, and discourse upon metaphysics until he really has met a pythia.

CHILTON-NOYES.

A Marriage in Charleston. The Bride Well-Known in Maysville.

G. O. Chilton and Miss Minnie V. Noyes were married at Charleston, W. Va., at high noon Tuesday last. Miss Noyes has many friends in this city where she has frequently been a most welcome guest.

The following is from The Charleston Evening Capital:

One of, if not the most beautiful wedding that has taken place in Charleston for a long time was the Chilton-Noyes wedding at the First Presbyterian Church. The ceremony being performed by the Rev. J. C. Barr at high noon today. The contracting parties were G. O. Chilton and Miss Minnie V. Noyes, both of this city.

The bride was attired in white silk a la train, an exquisitely beautiful dress. The groom in regulation Prince Albert. The maid of honor was Miss Katie Noyes, the bridesmaids being Misses Fannie Dickinson, Josephine Lewis, Rebecca Levi, Elizabeth Noyes, May Mahane and Nell Hubbard.

The groomsmen were P. H. Noyes, Jr., Jesse McLane, J. H. Mavity, J. H. Morgan, A. D. MacCordie and John F. Noyes, the ushers were C. C. Wager, John Thayer, Ned Ahlshe and J. B. White. The ceremony was beautifully solemn. Immediately after the ceremony the bridal party repaired to the bride's house where they partook of a delicious repast, numero placuisse.

More numerous or costly presents are not often seen at a wedding in Charleston, many of the most beautiful coming from a distance. The bride and groom left for the East at 3:30 where they go to spend the honeymoon.

ONE OF THE PINEST PINES.

The Grand Jury Indictment Keppert's Democratic Chief of Police.

The most sensational return made by a Campbell county Grand Jury for a long time was reported yesterday morning, when the Big Twelve coincided with Mayor Ahlberg, Republican, in his claim that Chief Cotttingham was a usurper in holding possession of the Chief of Police office. This matter caused a decided sensation and was the absorbing topic of conversation on the streets. The indictment reads as follows:

Thomas H. Cotttingham, usurpation of office, by knowingly holding and pretending to exercise the duties, authority and office of Chief of Police of the city of Newport, after the term for which he, the said Cotttingham, was appointed to or by law entitled to hold said office of Chief of Police had constitutionally and legally expired, said office being now constituted by the laws of the commonwealth of Kentucky.

Cotttingham surrendered himself to the Court and was admitted to bail in the sum of $1,000, and the case set for trial at 10 o'clock to-morrow.

The offense charged in the indictment is a misdemeanor and punishable with a fine of not less than $500 nor more than $1,500. Each day that the usurpation shall exist shall constitute a separate offense.

Cotttingham is charged with usurping the office since January 3d, and this being the 26th, he has been in offense twenty-four days. At the minimum fine his punishment would be $12,000. At the maximum fine the sum would be $36,000. He has been in office for three times that already given, which would be $36,000.

ARRANGEMENTS have been made to take 50,000 Germans from Pennsylvania to Mississippi. They will settle between Vicksburg and Memphis. This may be the beginning of a new South. Slavery drove immigration to the Northern states. The tide has never since turned South. The new South, however, Sweden and Germany can be induced to settle in the South, that section of the country will grow as amazingly as the West has grown, and there may yet be a future for railroads that run from East and South as well as for those that run East and West.

It was a monstrous "cold wave" that struck the local Democracy yesterday.

When the Postmaster received official notification that the Maysville Post-office has been placed in the classified Civil Service.

This shuts our friends out of some half a dozen places.

It is proper to say that the extension of the rules to this office was urged by the Civil Service Commission, and as the whole Civil Service business is a Democratic measure, fathered by the late Hon. GEORGE H. PENDLETON of Ohio, our friends the enemy ought to be willing to swallow their own medicine with good grace.

FRED MESSAY writes from Washington, saying that everything that comes from CLEVELAND is calculated to chill the hearts of the politicians.

People are slow to credit the report, but that CLEVELAND has sent an extraordinary message to the House Committee on Civil Service Reform to the effect that he would like to see President HARRISON before his term of office closes extend the provisions of the Civil Service rules to every possible branch of the Government, so that he may be free to attend to the many and important questions pending, and which he will have to deal with; furthermore indicating his disapproval of the DeArmond bill, now in the Civil Service Reform Committee.

This bill proposes to suspend during the first year of each Presidential term all Civil Service laws, rules and regulations, in so far as they do or might restrict or interfere with the free exercise by the President or Heads of Departments of the power to remove or appoint officers or employees of the Government.

The true blue Democracy were licking their chops over this choice expression of the old spoils principle, and there promised to be high jinks on the floor of the House, and the reform goliath, state-eyed or otherwise was to be knocked down and jumped on. Now the rude report is sent out that Mr. CLEVELAND had taken a previous hand in the matter, and that the measure will never see the light of day, but, under his orders, will remain in a pigeon-hole in the committee-room, or the pocket of the obedient chairman.

There is such a flurry among the old liners as has not been experienced since the wind blew over the ocean and the squirrel lost his tail. They have about come to the conclusion that there "ain't no doing anything with this man."

Lately they have been trying the plan of the man who said: "I will sit on the stile, and continue to smile, and often the heart of this cow." But that method evidently has had no effect, and the smile has died away into a sickly and departing grin in some quarters, and changed to a black scowl of wrath in others. They may conclude to make common cause and take up clubs and fight. If they do, they may appreciate the feelings of the bull after he had adventured so gallantly against the locomotive.

But with all this, we have not had the "curtain-raiser" yet. The orchestra is only beginning to tune up for the great political farce-comedy about to be presented.

The Duchess of Westminster, who gave birth to a child a few weeks back, has been having, as the nurses and Doctors say, a bad time of it. All is right now, and the Duke can pride himself on being the father of fifteen children. The Duchess is in the most comical relation, she is sister-in-law to her own daughter-in-law, for her brother married the daughter of the Duke of Westminster, of whom the now happily recovered mother is the wife. She is, at the same time, mother and sister, and, to make confusion worse confounded, she is sister-in-law and mother-in-law. She is a most charming lady, and the handsomest of the three daughters of that Mr. Cavendish of whom a gypsy prophesied that the three would marry, and each marry a different wife. The prophecy is true; the eldest is the Countess of Leicester, the second Viscountess Cobham, the third Duchess of Westminster.

The Celebrated McDonald Will Case Moving Along.

Several Witnesses Who Knew the Senator's Handwriting Will.

Declare That the Signatures Are Forged—The Witnesses Were Each in Turn Examined by the Jury.

NOBLESVILLE, Ind., Jan. 26.—Latest increases in the celebrated McDonald will case in the Hamilton circuit court as the trial proceeds. The attendance Wednesday was larger than on any preceding day and taxed the courtroom to its limit. The plaintiff, pursuing the same line of attack as on Tuesday, introduced W. H. Hay, deputy collector of Internal revenue who pronounced the signatures of Senator McDonald as attached to the will and duplicate copy both to be forgeries. Next in turn Henry Clay and Joseph Starnes, of Indianapolis, were examined. They, too, pronounced the signatures false. The next witness called was James H. Woodward, formerly of Indianapolis, who, being sworn, said he would tell the truth if the lawyers would permit him to do so. He testified to intimate personal acquaintance with Senator McDonald from 1861 up to the senator's death, during which time he resided from 599 to 1000 letters and acquired great familiarity with his signature. He pronounced both signatures not genuine. Mr. Woodward knew much of the social relations of the McDonald family.

In alluding to what he termed the senator's efforts to give his wife social recognition, he spoke of the money given to members of the legislature by the senator, to which many invitations were issued and a large number of which were not accepted.

John M. Butler, Jr., who is a member of the law firm of Butler, & Butler, & Butler, was examined Sunday 8 up to the time of Senator McDonald's death, was a member of the firm of McDonald, Butler & Snow, and admitted himself familiar with the writing and signatures of Senator McDonald, also of Park Daniels and Alphonse A. Snow, whose names appear as the writing witnesses on the McDonald will. The signatures carefully, and pronounced all of them as not genuine. He described the peculiar manner in which McDonald held a pen, and that he had over on the side and the top of the pen pointing away from him instead of over his shoulder, which had the effect of giving his letters a peculiar slant. Mr. Butler told of a visit by Mr. McDonald to the law office about ten days before the husband's death. He asked for Hon. John M. Butler, father of the witness, saying he desired to see him on important matters, and going into his study, asked the room, saying he was not disturbed and closed the door.

The witnesses were each in turn put through a most rigid cross examination, and last work in the case was by Mrs. Cospe, an English nobleman who maintained an immense hunting camp about twenty-five miles from the peak, was arrested to it by the Irish lights and rumbling noises.

He Was Probably Crazy.

No cause is assigned for the tragedy.

THE INVESTIGATION.

Ex-Deputy Warden Ewing Indicates That State Money Was Pocketed by the Warden.

JEFFERSONVILLE, Ind., Jan. 26.—The prison investigation committee began its second day's session Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock. John W. Ewing was selected to act as an expert accountant in the investigation. This man is the one who is alleged to have "booked" the figures in the Howard case investigation, and made it appear the shortage was $200,000, when it was actually but $100,000.

The examination of ex-Deputy Warden Ewing was resumed at 10:10 o'clock. He was questioned in regard to the provisions of the guards' dining room, and he said the state paid for them. He estimated that the guards and convicts paid board amounting to $190 a month, and there was a monthly balance of $30 to $40 to be turned over to the state, but he did not know what it was done. Mrs. Patton, he said, got $4 a month for her room, and the room belonged to the state.

He said Life Covert Berner paid Director R. E. Slater $150 to procure him a pardon. Patton's add was $100,000. He said he banked money he could get four percent for him in Louisville. The matter of punishment was then taken up. Witnesses said "After punishing men they were not allowed to bathe with the others, so that their clothes would not be seen. Deputy Warden John Howard told of a supply of whip out on a convict's back. Twenty men were lashed with buggy whips, and one was suspended by the thumb. I whipped Warden Howard. I hung him by the wrists. The warden told me to do it."

He said his mornings testify and there was an adjournment until afternoon. Ewing finished his evidence in the afternoon, and the witnesses stood. They were placed on the witness stand. Their testimony was unimportant. To a reporter several of the investigating committee said they were not sure the bottom had dropped out of the case, and there is hardly any doubt that Patton will be cleared, all but probably the investigating committee as much as saying that they would vote that way.

A TRAGEDY.

Crazy Negro Cuts a Woman's Throat at New Orleans.

Then Kills One Man and Badly Wounds Another.

Strung Up to Tree.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 26.—Mrs. Martin Mahon keeps a grocery at the corner of Atlantic and Poydras streets, and had in her employ a Negro ex-convict named William Fisher, whom she had befriended on account of his seeming devotion to her, and because he was a lunatic. Fisher lost his reason about three years ago while serving term in the state penitentiary, where he was sentenced for cutting a white man. Wednesday evening he was sent for oysters by Mrs. Mahon, and did not return until late in the night. He was found by her, and he flew into a rage. Seizing a large meat knife he caught her by the head and cut her throat from ear to ear.

Her cries for aid attracted the attention of Mr. McKnight, who was in an adjoining room. He ran to the door and saw the Negro grabbing McKnight, and dropping his knife, caught up by the collar, and he attempted to kill him. He failed in this, so he succeeded in severely wounding him.

Fisher fled from the house and scaled the fence. A steady fireman named Wm. Barrett saw him and tried to stop him. Fisher told him to keep away and Barrett followed him and caught the fellow about the middle of the street. The men wrestled for a while, and Fisher drew a knife, which he stabbed the white man three times in the breast.

By this time the entire neighborhood was aroused, and a vigorous chase with guns, knives and clubs ensued to find him. Fisher had hid in an armhouse of a neighboring dwelling, but did not remain long concealed. The crowd gathered around the little church, and derided him to come out. He refused to do so, and an attempt was made to break open the door. When the first blow of the ax was struck, the door was closely followed by four others, rang out. Fisher was making a bold but useless attempt to defend himself. His bullets failed, but so many damage, and when his cartridges were exhausted the crowd broke the door down, and the Negro was taken out. He was strung up to a tree in the head and several in the body put an end to his earthly career.

The crowd and rioters placed a rope around his neck, and with the yell, "Hang him before he dies," the bloody corpse was dragged through the yard of the church, and then to the gallows. The end of the rope was cast over a tree, and in less than time it takes to tell it Fisher was swinging in mid air.

THE MINE EXPLOSION.

The Number of Lives and Amount of Property Lost.

VIENNA, Jan. 26.—All hope of rescuing the men who were entombed by the explosion of fire at the Felschmied mine at Bud, Bohemia, Wednesday has been abandoned. An investigation of the list of employees revealed the fact that 139 men lost their lives in the disaster, as it is generally conceded that those who were not killed by the explosion were buried or suffocated by the after-damp. The mine is being cleared of the wreckage but the work is necessarily slow. Every effort is being made to recover the bodies of the dead.

Many pitiable and heart-rending scenes were witnessed about the mouth of the mine when it was announced that the mine officials that beyond a shadow of a doubt every man in the mine was made in the explosion.

An immense quantity of after-damp has accumulated in the mine. Wednesday explosion killed a party of rescuers were at the mine. The rescuers were so rapidly that every man of the party had to flee for his life. It is absolutely impossible to enter the mine.

PLOT TO BURN A TOWN.

Leads to Wholesale Arrests of Colored Men in Hampton, Va.

PORT MONROE, Va., Jan. 26.—The citizens of Hampton, Va., are very much excited by the discovery of a plot to burn the town of a colored man or a dozen colored men appear to have banded together for this purpose, which was to have been carried out last Friday night, but for the arrest of one of the conspirators, who has since turned state's evidence. These men were incensed because Rev. Thos. H. Norton, a colored minister who had rendered considerable notoriety by throwing Douglas Green, the New Yorker, and Mrs. McCrea, of Chicago, about three years ago, had a number of them indicted for selling liquor. His house was set on fire on the night in question, but was extinguished before much damage was done. Barnes' hotel and the Brittingham furniture store were also on the list, but not fired. The plan of the incendiaries was to start the fire in the west end and thus draw off the fire department, but the man sent for that purpose was arrested before he could get to work. The matter has been kept very quiet in order to secure the other conspirators, a half dozen of whom are now in jail.

MYSTERIOUS MURDER.

A Music Teacher's Murdered Body Found in a Closet at Ft. Worth, Tex.

FT. WORTH, Tex., Jan. 26.—The body of Miss Wesley Twomey, a music teacher, was found in the closet of a vacant house in the western portion of the city. A Negro boy, while cleaning up the premises, had discovered the body in a corner, her head resting on her hand, and a hole made by a bullet from a .45-caliber pistol in her right temple. There were a number of bruises and lacerations on her body and limbs and every evidence that she had been repeatedly outraged. Fresh blood stains gave evidence of a struggle. The body was found on Monday night. Miss Twomey came from Canada about five months ago. She had been married for a few years, and was married. Relatives who have lived say she left home a week ago to go to a pupil's home to give music lessons, and since that time nothing has been heard from her.

VERBOSITY WERE BETTER DEAD.

PIANZA, Italy, Jan. 26.—An Italian fresco of some note, and his step-niece, Celeste Muey, who was a resident of New Jersey, was killed by the explosion of fire at the Felschmied mine at Bud, Bohemia, Wednesday. The girl was visiting her mother here, and Pignotti, who has a wife, fell in love with her. As they were walking through the streets, he took rooms at a hotel where, locked in each other's arms, the man shot the woman and then himself. They left a trail of blood and left their unhappy fate. Both will probably die.

Summer Hotel Harmed.

NEW YORK, Jan. 26.—The Grandview, a summer hotel at Ft. Hamilton, caught fire Saturday morning. The flames spread with frightful rapidity, and at 2:30 the building fell. The hotel was built six years ago, and had accommodated about five hundred guests. It had eight stories, fronting on the park. It is probable that no one was in the hotel at the time. The extent of the loss and insurance can not yet be given.

Not Killed By the Explosion.

INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 26.—The startling statement was made here Wednesday morning by a railroad official, who claims to have the best authority, that the explosion at the Felschmied mine at Bud, Bohemia, Wednesday, did not kill any of the passengers and train crew, including passengers and train crew, were burned to death in the cafe on the Big Four road at Wann station Saturday morning. The railroad officials say the seven deaths were caused by the original wreck and not from the subsequent explosion of gasoline.

WINTER WHEAT

In Fair Condition in Many Sections of the Country.

While in Others the Wheat Was Injured by the Cold Weather.

Before the Blankets of Snow Came—Average Crops Probable—Little in Good Condition in the West.

CHICAGO, Jan. 26.—Wednesday's Farmers' Review says reports have been received from the correspondents in twelve states on the condition of winter wheat and on the condition and movement of cattle, in Illinois later wheat is in from fair to good condition generally. About 15 per cent of the correspondents, however, report that in their states the stand was rather weak when winter set in, and in one or two instances, it was feared the wheat had been injured by the severe cold weather, before the blanket of snow came. A part of this poor condition at the present time is due to the slow growth of the wheat in the fall, and later conditions may operate to still further the danger. The condition of cattle is everywhere good. There are a number of reports that the crop has not recovered from the effects of the ravages of the fly, reported last fall, and in a few of the counties, the crop will amount to very little wheat taken in connection with the condition of the crop throughout the state. Cattle are in good condition, but few are being marketed.

In Kentucky the wheat crop is not up to the condition reported in the preceding states. The stand is generally good, but generally report it much above 75 per cent of an average. In half of the counties cattle are reported to be in good condition, and in the other half the condition is fair. In Missouri wheat is not in a desirable condition. It is reported severely at good, fair, poor, in a number of the counties the wheat is reported injured by hard freezing and the lack of snow. In other counties the wheat is in good condition, but the frost, but did not do much to prevent further injury.

In others the drought of last fall did the damage, and the wheat has not yet recovered. Cattle are in good condition throughout the state, but the movement is very slow. In Kansas the wheat is in good condition, but the movement is very slow. In Kansas the wheat is in good condition, but the movement is very slow.
